When I was growing up, I had always thought that baking or preparing something in the oven was a bit of work. This was why I had always preferred seeing my mother cook on the stovetop than when she bakes anything, as I believed then that baking stresses her more than when she cooked on the stovetop! Don't get me wrong, this isn't to say that I didn't enjoy oven baked meals. I did, but I just didn't enjoy the stress that I thought went with cooking with the oven. I lived with this mentality until I stumbled on a particular recipe that I loved, and it required that I baked. I was at a crossroad as I wanted to enjoy my newfound recipe, but I didn't want to use the oven. Hence, I spent hours trying to search for how to prepare that meal on a stovetop. The funny thing is that I found stovetop recipes of that meal, but I found out that the time that I would spend baking it in the oven wasn't lesser than when I cooked on the stovetop! Also cooking it on the stop was going to stress me up than when I used the oven! There and then, I opted for cooking with my oven and since then, I have never regretted my decision. Cooking with my oven now has become second nature to me! I enjoy it more than I enjoy cooking on my stovetop.
